Applicant argues that "what Applicant's originator identifier might be considered as is irrelevant. What is relevant here is whether Garib teaches or reasonably suggests Applicant's originator identifier, and the language of the Action quoted above does not support that" (Remarks: Page 3 / 1st Para) - i.e. the email includes an authenticity mark including originator identifier and encrypted data. Examiner notes, according to MPEP 2111, the broadest and reasonable claim interpretations must be made by the Examiner, such that (a) authenticity mark is interpreted as an entity that is marked for authentication purpose, (b) a digital signature can serve the purpose as an originator identifier and (c) Garib teaches "authenticity means that the recipient can be reasonably assured of the identity of the sender (i.e., that the received message was actually sent by the party who claims to be the sender), where digital signature methods, as known in the art, can be used to ensure the authenticity of a message (Garib: Column 3 Line 47 - 52:This is exactly taught by Garib and thereby it should be under a 102 rejection)" and Garib also teaches "the message hash value is appended to the unencrypted message and is thereafter encrypted along with the message (Garib: Column 6 Line 30 - 35)" to meet the claim language and (c) therefore, Garib does teach "the email includes an authenticity mark including originator identifier and encrypted data" and as such Applicant's arguments are respectfully traversed.
